

Exploring and nurturing potential

People with learning disabilities usually have their needs assessed by the local authority. But delivering excellent care in support of someone's assessed needs is only part of the story, and not everyone has an assessment.

We will:

- Recognise and nurture potential by encouraging people to explore what they want from their lives
- Enable people to have their own voice and views and make them known
- Map the places and people in the community that offer people opportunities to explore their potential, and help connect them
- Be creative and collaborative in providing new opportunities where gaps exist
- Support families to understand their rights and what can be achieved
- Help people at transitional points in their life, including; leaving school, moving to their own home or getting older.

We believe every person has potential, which can go far beyond the basic needs for which they receive support.

Educating and inspiring society

People with learning disabilities have a huge amount to offer the world. But usually their input and influence is undervalued and ignored.

We will:

- Build upon the existing work experience and employment opportunities in our social enterprises by opening more outlets
- Help to create more opportunities for work experience and employment in society
- Create Learning Disability Confident Employer award
- Engage fully in all opportunities to consult with and influence local and national government on learning disabilities at all levels
- Work with the University of Winchester on the creation of a university experience for people with learning disabilities
- Influence and coach companies, services and communities in how to hear the views and perspectives of people with learning disabilities, and how to serve these citizens better
- Lead the way on modelling how truly inclusive communities benefit the world.

We believe in reducing or removing barriers in society and showing how people with learning disabilities can participate fully in their communities.

Involving the people we support throughout our organisation

This improves our services and makes it more likely that the people we support will fulfil their potential.

We will:

- Find the best ways to involve people with learning disabilities and give them the opportunities and support to make the fullest possible contribution to their services, our enterprises, and the way Minstead Trust develops.
- Put communication, feedback and research mechanisms into everything we do, to become a true learning organisation
- Enable people to express their own views and ensure that their voices are heard
- Create paid roles for people with learning disabilities in all our departments.

We believe that it is the right of people with learning disabilities to be involved in the creation and implementation of our services.
